The hands-on exhibits included displays from the Zoological Society of Florida/Zoo Miami, Maderas Rainforest Conservation, the Center for Great Apes, and Save the Chimps.

The Zoological Society of Florida/ Zoo Miami displayed animal bio-facts along with wildlife activities. Maderas Rainforest Conservancy offered a unique display and an opportunity to learn about habitat conservation for great apes. The Center for Great Apes brought their youth conservation team, The Ape Ambassadors to connect youth with primates. Save the Chimps brought hands-on activities, and received donations from visitors that included peanut butter, jelly, nuts, sunflower seeds, dried fruit, rice, oats, pasta, small plastic toys, basketballs, hand sanitizer, paper towels and laundry detergent.
